seeing in the sun one report headed "Don't care a rat!" Mrs. H. B. Stanton said the only way to retaliate was to have a daily paper, and treat men just as they treated women—give them ridicule. Mr. Dana, she knew, sympathized with the movement, and must be ignorant of these ridiculous proceedings. Mr. Greeley, too, had given positive orders that the thing should be spoken of in a dignified manner. He had said

THE MURDER NEAR PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND.
PROVIDENCE, R. I., Sept. 7.—A terrible affair occurred on Sunday, at Pidge's Ground, a shore resort, about six miles from Providence. The homicide seems to have been the result of a drunken quarrel. The victim, Thomas Ward, was a man about 45 years of age, who came from Pawtucket some weeks ago with his family, and was occupying a small hut on the grounds, his occupation being a laborer for the campers out. At a little past 10 o'clock at night he was aroused by a loud knock at his door, and getting up went in his night clothes to the door, where he was wanted. He found two drunken men there, noisy and brawling, shouting out obscene words, reckless and intrusive.

He told them to go away, using proper language; but they "wanted matches," they said, to light their pipes with. Not being furnished they became abusive, and Ward's wife, coming to see what was the matter, was greeted with filthy language. This exacerbated the husband, and rushing out with a small hatchet he engaged in a tussle with the two men. A severe fight then ensued in the dark, during which one of the men, Charles L. Owen of Danielsonville, Conn., is stated to have drawn a dirk knife and cut a wife and deep gash Ward's abdomen. The wound was about two and a half inches long, and the intestines of the victim protruded from it. Before this Owen had received a severe cut in the head, and was probably injured by it. When the assassin saw that he had been detected by it. "You have cut me; you have cut me," he shouted. "In the fight, named Binkley, Wick and the third person, then ran away, and made his escape of North Providence. When he was arrested at Peck's until this morning, when Hendrick, brought to this Grove by Officer An. An alarm was given city and lodged in 1922. Ward coming up arrested him, and he was found standing near the wounded man with the hatchet in one hand and the knife in the other. He was conveyed to prison. Ward was comatose, but could not tell who struck the blow. He could only say he had been struck with a knife. Ward lingered until 8 o'clock on Monday morning, when he died after much suffering. The story which Owen tells is to the effect that he was struck with the hatchet by Ward, and that in the melee Ward either cut himself with the knife or threw did, running away afterwards. He said that Owen was not cut in the back, but that he (Owen) might not get cut in the back to obtain it. A coroner's inquest was held to-day, when the jury found Owen guilty of murder, and he is committed to prison to await trial.

THE SCARCITY OF WATER IN PHILADELPHIA.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 7.—At 2 o'clock this afternoon, connections having been completed at the Fairmount Water Works, the pumps of the fire and wrecking steamer John Fuller were set to work, discharging their full capacity, eight thousand gallons per minute, into the reservoir. Chief Engineer Graff to-day raised the blockade of the Schuylkill Navigation Company, and thirty boats have been passed through, thus opening navigation, which has been suspended since August 14.
